Who we are:

We are a Caribbean diaspora podcast chewing the fat on Caribbean Cricket. The Caribbean Cricket Podcast is hosted by Machel St Patrick Hewitt (@MashStPaddy) & Santokie Nagulendran (@santokie89).

What we do:

We aim to promote diversity in the communication of Caribbean cricket news and provide a common platform for all fans of Caribbean cricket.

Who we've worked with:

The Caribbean Cricket Podcast has worked with the following companies to produce articles and/or podcast content.

The Cricketer, Caribbean Premier League, Wisden, The Nightwatchman, University of Wolverhampton, RJR radio (Jamaica), ESPN Cricinfo and we have been endorsed by BT Sport and Sky Sports Cricket. We are currently working with 99.94dm to deliver West Indies on 99.94dm, a tri-weekly podcast covering all things on West Indies cricket.

Services we provide:

The Caribbean Cricket Podcast is a Caribbean cricket multi-media initiative. Primarily aimed at creating twice monthly podcasts that engage with the key stakeholders and issues in Caribbean Cricket. The show is available on all major podcast platforms and on You Tube.

In addition to this Machel and Santokie work as freelance cricket writers as well as providing a platform for budding cricket journalists or casual fans to submit articles of note.

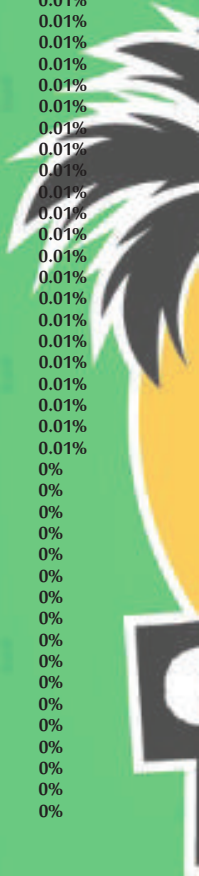

Our reach:

Although self funded, The Caribbean cricket podcast is easily accessible and available on all podcast platforms. In addition to this through the patreon scheme - supporters are able to get behind-the-scenes updates, discounts as well as contribute to the growth of the podcast.

The Caribbean Cricket Podcast has a huge audience all over the globe with the dominant audience in the UK and the diaspora community in the United States.
